The League of United Latin American Citizens is the largest and oldest civil rights volunteer-based organization that empowers Hispanic Americans and builds strong Latino communities. We are 135,000 passionate volunteers, staff and partners, working through a nationwide network of grassroots councils to help Latinos of all generations to help themselves.

LULAC programs tackle the most important issues for Latinos, meeting critical needs of the moment and the future. Implemented through councils and education and technology centers around the country, LULAC empowers Latinos with fundamental life skills, such as computer and financial literacy or healthy living. We also strengthen communities with leadership training, scholarships and civic engagement campaigns.

LULAC's 1,000 grassroots councils are active in 36 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Each council elects its own leadership and sets its own priorities. The local councils also provide guidance, direction and elected leaders to the LULAC national office. This grassroots approach ensures that LULAC reflects the diversity of the Latino American community and shapes its future.

LULAC's technology, educational and job centers open doors to new worlds. In 60 tech centers around the country, LULAC volunteers, staff and partners bring computer training and Internet access to 150,000 underserved Latinos each year. LULAC's 13 education centers annually help 11,000 young Latinos graduate from high school and pursue further educational opportunities. The LULAC Corporate Alliance, an advisory board of Fortune 500 companies, fosters stronger partnerships between Corporate America and the Hispanic community.

The League of United Latin American Citizens was incorporated on February 17, 1929 as a 501(c)(4) civic organization. On October 10, 1997, LULAC incorporated the LULAC Institute, a 501(c)(3) charitable organization, in order to facilitate tax deductible donations to the LULAC organization.
