U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Representative:

On behalf of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), the nation's oldest and largest Latino civil rights organization, I write to express concern regarding news reports that Representative Robert Aderholt is taking steps to introduce a bill whose main message appears to be that Latino immigrants are not valued by this Congress. While a bill has not been released, reports indicate that draft language would prevent the President of the United States from exercising prosecutorial discretion to focus our nation's limited immigration enforcement resources on high priority targets. In essence, it would be insisting that our nation's immigration enforcement agencies target the hardworking immigrants who pick our food, clean our homes and offices, care for our children and countless other essential tasks as much as violent felons. Why any member of Congress would support such a measure cannot be explained from a rational policy perspective.

LULAC has diligently worked for years with faith based organizations, businesses, and advocacy groups of every stripe to engage and educate members of Congress on the need for bipartisan, comprehensive immigration reform. While we were encouraged by the bipartisan display of support for S.744 in the Senate in the 113th session of Congress, our organization was disappointed that no comprehensive immigration reform legislation advanced through the House of Representatives. Today, we are deeply troubled that the 114th Congress will begin its year with members looking to pass legislation that includes language like the one Congressman Aderholt is reportedly aiming to get through the House of Representatives. It is irresponsible to introduce a bill that prevents the President from doing what he can to fix our broken immigration system especially given the failure of the House of Representatives to pass its own comprehensive immigration reform bill.

The Latino community sees this potential bill and any others mimicking Representative Aderholt's language, as well as the anti-immigrant rhetoric used by some Representatives who support it, as a political attack against Latino immigrants designed to appeal to a small but vocal group of radicalized anti-immigrant voters. It is extreme, unnecessary, and does nothing to fix our broken immigration system. These attempts also go against the will of the American people. According to recent polling, over 89 percent of Latino voters approve of the President's actions, and over 60 percent of the general American public support President Obama's immigration policy reforms.

Close to two million immigrants have been deported during President Obama's time in office, separating countless families and slowing our economy. Because of Congress' inaction, President Obama has acted within his authority to provide limited and temporary relief to immigrants who meet very specific requirements. If the House of Representatives prefers Congressional over Presidential action, as LULAC does, then Congress should pass a comprehensive immigration reform bill instead of attempting to block President Obama's efforts to fix our broken immigration system.

On behalf of the 135,000 members of LULAC, I urge you to oppose any legislation aimed at blocking President Obama's efforts to fix our immigration system. Please feel free to have your staff reach out to Luis Torres, LULAC Director of Policy, at latorres@lulac.org should you have any questions.

Sincerely,
