LULAC National Women's Conference New York, NY

Dear LULAC Women's Commission Members and Friends,
What an honor and exciting privilege to welcome you to the 2021 LULAC Women's Conference, the first major in-person LULAC event in the past 20 months. We are making history together and inspiring women across the United States and Puerto Rico that, yes, we can and are leading the way forward!

Your presence and participation empower all Latinas to believe in themselves and embrace our collective strength in unity through the LULAC Women's Commission. This event is a celebration of the power of women in the vital roles we undertake daily at home, our workplace, in the public space, indeed everywhere. Today is our time to rise, be heard, and be accepted for all we are and do.

As importantly, the best tool to combat violence and abuse is education. Women must be informed and trusting of their innate worth, not feel inferior or unable to assert their right to be respected and valued. So too, men are welcome to join in this new paradigm established on a foundation of gender equality and equity. We no longer accept the contrived macho image as anything more than a pretext for suppressing the presence and contributions women are making in all facets of our society.

The solution requires that we each take an active part in being an agent of change. First, LULAC members are the cornerstone of this new design and must be present and engaged, not only in name. So too, every state administration and Puerto Rico needs to be fully involved and support nonprofits doing the work at the grassroots level, including with essential resources and tools. Equally important is the role that corporate partners have in providing the financial investment to tackle women's challenges. LULAC women members, government, and sponsors are the genuine three-way link for progress.

It is idealistic to believe that there will one day be an absolute final victory to the problems confronting women, but that is unlikely as governments and conditions change constantly. However, LULAC Women's Commission can make a difference by empowering the most significant number of women possible. Also, by urging them to ascend into the highest positions of influence in government, education, and business. Only then can we acquire the power to make positive transformations.

From the bottom, we can never effect change, just as a person trying to swim without knowing how to swim tires eventually and may drown. Yet, when we are empowered, we have hope to help still more women. This progress includes achieving leadership positions in business, government, and LULAC, where we make change happen. Without this, I will exert myself and may swim a great deal, but I will never reach the shore. I challenge you and every woman to aspire, excel and achieve positions from which we too can help make a difference and be a positive part of our movement for justice!

Sincerely,

Elsie Valdés-Ramos

President's Message ▼

November 12, 2021

Dear LULAC Family and Friends,

Welcome to the 2021 LULAC Women's Conference. I wish you a very successful program together at this critical time in our country's recovery from one of the worst pandemics in modern times. You can be sure that LULAC is hard at work with you fighting to defend women's rights in their homes, where they work, and the communities where they live. Our organization is proud of the strong presence and leadership of LULAC women. They are highly committed and capable while working on education, immigration, voter rights, and other critical civil rights areas.

Be assured that your voices are being included and heard in the battles LULAC is waging daily in statehouses and Capitol Hill. This past year we have been very active on such issues as supporting mixed-status immigrant families dealing with the financial impact of COVID-19. Also, LULAC is speaking out strongly, demanding protection for women from the growing danger of physical and emotional abuse by their domestic partners. Plus, we have been advocating to help mothers and families whose children are learning from home and need daily care and instruction.

Throughout LULAC's history, we have been fortunate to have women's talents, skills, and experience. They have served as state directors, national board members, and LULAC presidents to guide us. Also, the establishment and service of the LULAC Women's Commission stand it apart as one of the outstanding voices for millions of Latinas across the United States and Puerto Rico. We are grateful that you have continued to keep all of us connected and informed virtually on significant legislative and policy developments impacting women during this pandemic.

LULAC pledges to continue advocating on behalf of Latinas in Puerto Rico and the United States for their safety, advancement, and inclusion as equal and valued partners in every aspect of our society. More than ever, we are committed to the strength of our unity and the importance of our shared goal, the future of our communities.

Hasta La Victoria,

Domingo Garcia
LULAC National President

National Vice President for the Northeast

As the LULAC National Vice President for the Northeast, I welcome you to the great State of New York for the 2021 Annual LULAC National Women's Conference.

The women of LULAC gather annually to empower themselves, raise their voices, and as we say, "Recharge Our Batteries" by participating in workshops, sharing of stories, and best practices. We know and appreciate that this conference would not have been possible if not for the unwavering support of our sponsors. A personal thank you to each, and every, one of you.

I would also like to thank Elsie Valdes Ramos, National Vice President for Women, Sylvia Mata, our Northeast Women's Commissioner, and all of the LULAC National Women's Commissioners nationwide for their commitment to the mission and vision of LULAC.

In closing, I would like to mention that this event would not have come to fruition if it were not for the LULAC National staff and their dedication and devotion to the organization that we all hold so dear. A special thank you to all of them for making this event possible.

We look forward to a positive, safe, gratifying event...

We look forward to hearing YOUR voice...

We look forward to shaping our future...

And, of course, we look forward to welcoming you and enjoying New York City.

Yours truly,

Message from the CEO

Dear LULAC Familia,

¡Bienvenidos to LULAC's National Women's Conference held this year in New York City!

This year's theme, Overcoming Obstacles Through Resilience and Perseverance, is timely given the difficult last 18 months we have all endured, especially women. For many Latinas, the pandemic has been one of loss: loss of loved ones, loss of learning, and the loss of jobs.

According to a report published today by the UCLA Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, since the COVID-19 pandemic began, Latinas have not only experienced disproportionately high unemployment rates, but they also are dropping out of the workforce at higher rates than any other group. To many of us, it feels like much of the progress we worked hard for has been erased in just under two years. Many of us are anxious, depressed and feel hopeless.

However, we Latinas have overcome adversity before and are more resilient than most. Just like in our families, the women of LULAC have always been both the anchor and the sail of the ship. When LULAC was founded in 1929, we suffered under state-sanctioned violence and segregation under Jim Crow only to fight back and desegregate hundreds of public places throughout Texas, such as the court room, pools, restrooms, drinking fountains, and restaurants.

In the 40s and 50s, we desegregated schools in California and Texas. The 1960s brought Headstart, started by LULAC, and the creation of SER - Jobs for Progress and MALDEF. We helped the United Farm Workers in their struggle for minimum wages and dignity and helped provide housing to thousands of low-income people. These accomplishments by LULAC, driven by the mothers, daughters and sisters of LULAC, were at a time when the law did not deem us to be equal, and our families were terrorized by lynching and vigilantes.

As people who have overcome adversity and challenges in our journeys, we know that even when we take two steps back, we will push forward in order to not only survive, but thrive! We hope that this year's conference, which focuses on health, women's rights and empowerment, diversity and inclusion in the workplace, and education and leadership, provides you with the tools you need to overcome adversity and help drive transformation in this country to create lasting impact for our community, even in a global pandemic. As mi mami always tells me: ¡Si se puede, porque no hay de otra! Hacia adelante siempre con fe en tu corazón y con la frente en alto.

Dear Elsie;

I am so honored to be part of the LULAC National Women's Commission for the North East.

This year, women's stepped up, with our community, passing over a global pandemic and now, showing how strong, powerful and courageous we are.

In business they are drivers of economic growth, overpassing many factors that challenge our daily life - including lack of finance, training, and social or gender norms. That is why LULAC women's works to meet these needs with action and empowerment programs.

Women show it's nature during this special celebration, presenting eight outstanding Latin-American visual artist from Argentina, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador Colombia and Cuba, bringing together our culture, with a manifestation of love and creation.

Hope all enjoy the "Diverse Women in action"

Welcome to the 2021 LULAC National Women's conference. We are thrilled to see you all face to face or shall we say mask to mask for an enjoyable, educational and networking conference.

Thank you for coming to New York, where we were one of the hardest hit states early on in this pandemic. Now, through discipline, committed leadership and community support we are now one of the safest states. As we look back on the last two years we have all experienced, learned and supported each other as we managed through a Worldwide pandemic.

As Latinas many of us are raised to take care of others. We are caregivers in multigenerational families. Some of us are the sole breadwinners and others are what we have come to appreciate as essential workers.

We are mothers, daughters, sisters, aunts and the list goes on and on. But through it all we remain committed to our families and communities.

While the world has to come together to support each other, to some a new way of life they are still trying to learn and manage, Latinas have been doing this for years. We understand the importance of nurturing your family, community and beyond.

My hope for this conference is that as community leaders we will continue to bring educational programs back to our constituents. That in the immediate future we continue to follow the science when it comes to this pandemic and share information with all. That we coach and educate our family and friends on steps needed to eradicate this virus and other perils that we face as a community, nation and worldwide citizens.

Enjoy, learn and network during this conference. Safe travels as you head back home.
Sincerely,

Gail Z. Cardona

Warrior Women and Self-Care: The State of Latinas and Mental Health

Latinas play a vital role in the physical, spiritual, and mental well-being of their families. That role was put to the test when the COVID-19 pandemic required us to quarantine, forcing us to shift life as we know it almost overnight. While Latinas continue to work hard at lifting their family and loved ones during these challenging times, many have allowed themselves to play a backdrop when in actuality, by putting themselves first, they benefit everyone they care for most. This panel will take a deep dive into the importance of self-care and prioritizing your mental health so that you show up strong and ready to continue being that bright light for others. What can you do in as little as 10 mins that will help your light shine bright and continue illuminating and elevating? What lifestyle shifts need to take place to make investing in your mental health a priority?

The Women of LULAC

LULAC was one of the first national organizations to place emphasis on the role of women. Its first council #9 was created on February 22, 1934, in El Paso, Texas. By 1938, the league had created the first women's national office in Mrs. Ester Machuca as Ladies Organizer General.

The growth of the role of women in LULAC has never stopped. In 1981, the league's first National Vice-President for Women was elected. Programs for women are carried out at the local level through the efforts of state coordinators for women. One of the league's most successful programs has been two-day conferences on education and employment held in various states, and a national conference.

Mujeres de LULAC: A History of Accomplishments

LULAC was established in Texas. Membership was open to persons of Mexican origin but women were not encouraged to join.

1932

Women formed LULAC Ladies' Auxiliaries in Alice, El Paso, Kingsville, and San Antonio, Texas.

1933

Ladies LULAC was founded at the Texas State LULAC Convention in Del Rio, when the League permitted Latin American women to organize on the same basis as men. Joe Alamia and J. M. Canales, of Edinburg, submitted the resolution establishing Ladies LULAC. Jose Luz Saenz served as the first organizer of Ladies LULAC, the only man ever in this position. Alice, Texas, organized the first council by incorporating the existing ladies' auxiliary there. Ladies LULAC councils largely worked independently of one another and apart from men's councils. They were especially concerned with children, the poor, the elderly, women, scholarships, education and politics.

1934

Ester Machuca founded Ladies LULAC Council #9, in El Paso, Texas, by incorporating the existing ladies' auxiliary there, and served as first treasurer. Council #9 is the only Ladies Council founded in the 1930s that still exists today. Council #9 is currently led by Lila Gutierrez. LULAC established the position Ladies Organizer General, the official organizer of women's councils. This position existed until 1942. In Goliad, Ladies LULAC fought for admission of students of Mexican descent into public schools.

With Filemon Martinez as National LULAC President, Ladies LULAC was recognized as a national entity and the position of Ladies Organizer General (later called National Vice President of Women) was created on the national board. Ester Machuca was named Ladies Organizer General and Ladies LULAC Councils were established in Arizona, California, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas.

Eva Carrillo founded Ladies LULAC in Austin. She and her council worked to desegregate movie theaters and swimming pools as well as schools. They also encouraged Hispanics to buy property, pay the poll tax, vote, and defend their rights.

The May edition of LULAC NEWS, the official magazine of the League, was conceived, edited, and produced by Ester Machuca and dedicated to Antonietta Delgado de Martinez, Ladies LULAC member and deceased wife of LULAC National President Filemon Martinez. It is the only edition ever produced entirely by LULAC women and is one of only two issues about LULAC women. At 68 pages, it was also one of the thickest.

1940

Alice Dickerson Montemayor became associate editor of LULAC News. She wrote more articles for LULAC News than any other woman, including a 1937 article entitled "Women's Opportunity in LULAC" in which she defined a woman's place to be in that position where she can do the most for the furthering of her fellow woman and in 1938 editorial entitled "Son Muy Hombres?" in which she denounced notions of male superiority and argued for women's right to participate in LULAC.

1948

Ladies LULAC contributed funds for Delgado v Bastrop ISD lawsuit, which ended segregation of Hispanic American children in Texas schools.

1950

LULAC Councils began to integrate. In Houston, Ladies LULAC collected poll taxes, registered voters, and bought eyeglasses for school children.

How do I sign up for the All of Us Research Program?

.....

.....

1. Create an Account

If you decide to join the All of Us Research Program, the first step is to create an account. You can do this by visiting JoinAllofUs.org or by going to one of our partner centers. You'll need to provide your name and email address or mobile phone number to enroll.

2. Give Your Consent

Once you've created your account, you will be asked to give your consent. This includes reviewing a series of videos, which will provide more detailed information about the program. These describe all the types of information you may be asked to give. Once you feel comfortable that you know what to expect, and if you are ready to give your consent, you'll electronically sign the consent form. You can do all of this from your computer, tablet, or smartphone, or at a partner center.

3. Agree to Share Your Electronic Health Record (EHR)

As part of the consent process, we will also ask you to agree to share your electronic health record (EHR). Sharing your EHR is your choice. If you decide not to share your EHR, you can still participate by answering health surveys. But you will not be asked to take part in some other aspects of the program.

4. Complete the Consent to Get DNA Results

Your DNA results could include information about your ancestry (which is where your family comes from), your genetic traits, whether you have an increased risk for getting certain health conditions, and how your body might react to certain medications. You may want to know this information or you may not.

5. Answer Health Surveys

You will be asked to answer several health surveys. These are available on the Participant Portal. You can answer the surveys at your convenience using your computer, tablet, or smartphone. Your name will never be on these. Your answers will help build the All of Us Research Program database. Approved researchers can access this database to conduct their studies.

6. Have Your Measurements Taken

You may be invited to visit one of our partner centers to have your physical measurements taken (height, weight, blood pressure, etc.) and provide blood and urine samples. You will be able to choose the partner location most convenient for you.

All of Us
RESEARCH PROGRAM

We're calling on one million or more people to lead the way toward better health.

What is precision medicine?

Precision medicine is health care that is based on you as an individual. It takes into account factors like where you live, what you do, and your family health history. The goal is to be able to tell people the best ways to stay healthy.

What is the All of Us Research Program?

The All of Us Research Program is a large research program. The goal is to help researchers understand more about why people get sick or stay healthy. People who join will give us information about their health, habits, and what it's like where they live. By looking for patterns, researchers may learn more about what affects people's health.

How do I join the All of Us Research Program?

There are two ways to join:

- Visit the All of Us website JoinAllofUs.org.
- Download the All of Us app.

Because All of Us is research, you will be asked to complete an informed consent process. This process tells more about what is involved, and the risks and benefits of joining.

What will you ask me to do?

If you decide to join All of Us, we will ask you to share different kinds of information. We will ask you basic information like your name and where you live, questions about your health, family, home, and work. If you have an electronic health record, we may ask for access. We might also ask you to give samples, like blood or urine. We also want to know if you will want information about your DNA.

How long will the All of Us Research Program last?

All of Us may last for at least 10 years. We hope you will stay involved over time. If you join, you can withdraw at any time for any reason without penalty.

Why should I join the All of Us Research Program?

You will be contributing to research that may improve health for everyone. Here are some examples of what researchers might be able to discover:

- Better tests to see if people are sick or are at risk of getting sick.
- Better mobile apps to encourage healthy habits.
- Better medicine or information about how much of a medicine is right for each person.

What will you do to protect my privacy?

We will take great care to protect your information. Here are a few of the steps we will take:

- Information we have about you will be stored on protected computers. We will limit and keep track of who sees the information.
- We will remove your name and other direct identifiers (like your Social Security number) from your information and replace them with a code.
- Researchers must promise not to try to find out who you are.
- We will tell you if there is a risk to your privacy because of a data breach.
- The All of Us Research Program has Certificates of Confidentiality from the U.S. government. This will help us fight legal demands (such as a court order) to give out information that could identify you.

LULAC National convention & exposition

— PUERTO RICO —

AT THE PUERTO RICO CONVENTION CENTER

The LULAC Convention is an exciting, history-making convention, because it convenes the national delegates of LULAC to discuss issues, set policies, and elect the organization's national leaders. For this reason, the LULAC Convention is covered by national and local media. It is the only convention in which participants representing Hispanic communities from across the country determine the positions and strategies of a national Latino organization.
